SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Since the day when Madden, Smith and Smith ran roughshod over American business as managers of what was supposed to be a partial National Labor Relations board, I have not seen anything so disgracefully unfair as Secretary Schwelb's squeeze on the oil industry.

To make it clear, management of men long before the strike situation got into Schwelb's hands, discussed a wage increase to compensate in part for the loss of "home" by the peace time reduction of working hours from 48 more a week to 40. Certain unions demanded a 30 per cent increase which would give their men many dollars for 40 hours work they have been getting for 48 hours, plus 4 hours extra pay for overtime.

Some of the companies made an offer of 15 per cent increase. The unions refused the offer and struck number of oil refineries (in violation of their contracts and the Smith-Connally Act, as the companies claim). This created a critical situation and the government stepped in to get the oil flowing again.

So far, so good. During the negotiations, Mr. Schwelb told unions that they could not take over government functions in the rationing of gasoline in Detroit. He also protested the blocking of public streets in Whiting, Indiana, where C. I. O. strikers were trying to force the members of another union against their will to close the largest refinery in the Chicago area.

SWEEPING REVISION OF ENTIRE "JAP" SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC STRUCTURE IS ORDERED IN MacARTHUR'S PROGRAM

Supreme Allied Commander Receives Shidehara at His Tokyo Headquarters—Outlines Far-Reaching Program for Japan to Achieve Potsdam Objectives.

By John R. Henry
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO, Oct. 11—(INS)—Sweeping revision of the entire Japanese social and economic structure was ordered today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in a five-point program laid down for Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara's new Cabinet.

The Supreme Allied Commander received Shidehara at his Tokyo headquarters late this afternoon and outlined a far-reaching program for Japan to achieve the Potsdam objectives.

MacArthur emphasized the following points during the historic interview.

1. Women must be emancipated through the voting franchise.
2. Labor should be encouraged to unionize.
3. Japan's educational system must be liberalized.
4. Governmental inquisition systems must be abolished along with the practice of imprisoning persons for political reasons.
5. The nation's economic system must be revised to prevent monopolistic control of industries.

By Howard Handleman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO, Oct. 11—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur took another step today toward controlling all Japanese assets by ordering the government to report within 30 to 90 days on all Japanese-owned foreign exchange assets, public or private.

The government, all its agencies and the Imperial household were required to make their reports within 30 days while other institutions were given up to 90 days to report because of difficulties in finding records.

Some Japanese firms or financial families reportedly have 35 per cent of their assets abroad.

MacArthur's directive specifies both Japanese property abroad and Japanese-owned assets in Japan, such as foreign currencies and securities held largely by the Bank of Japan and the Yokohama Specie Bank.

Today's directive was the sixth step in the Allied moves to control Japan's international financial transactions and custody of foreign exchange assets which may have been looted in occupied countries.

The first five orders were to forbid Japanese import or export of Japanese exchange or foreign assets.

Harold VanKirk, of Carversville, who has as one of his hobbies the collecting of old firearms, especially muzzle-loading rifles, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Dublin Lions Club, Tuesday evening.

Many of these rifles, he said, weighed as high as 75 pounds, but they were constructed well and they were quite accurate. Mr. VanKirk told the members he uses some of these old rifles in shooting matches.

ATOM BOMB MUST NEVER BE USED AGAIN

Discovery Completes The Revolution in Character of War Started in 1914

ALLIES MUST GUARD IT

(In the following article, distributed exclusively in the United States by International News Service, William Beveridge, member of Parliament and British social welfare leader, stresses use of the atomic bomb emphasizes the necessity of abolishing war.—INS)

By William Beveridge
(Author of the Beveridge Plan for Social Reform)

LONDON, Oct. 11—(INS)—The atomic bomb completes the revolution in the character of war that began in 1914, and makes necessary a revolution in the government of mankind.

First, in wiping out two Japanese cities, the atomic bomb erased finally and formally all distinction between military and civil persons as objectives of attack.

Second, the atomic bomb is almost sure to send to the museum all other arms of modern war—tanks, battleships, guns, rifles and trained conscripts masses; to the same museum where had been sent the long arches of Agincourt and Balacava's sabres.

Preparedness for war, with atomic bombs could be, in economic terms, relative cheap.

The money America spent to give birth to the atomic bomb is not much in relation with war expenses or with the peace time waste due to unemployment.

In fact it is equivalent to the amount of productive resources unused in England each year before this war; the waste in the United States was greater.

Third, the atomic bomb has increased beyond all calculations the price that it is worth to pay for peace.

A report of a Liberal Party committee on the Dumbarton Oaks proposition a few months ago said: "Wars old and modern are diseases of a character totally different."

CO. SEAT MEMORIAL FUND NOW AT $36,000

Goodly Percentage of $50,000 Goal for "Living Memorial" is Reached

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 11—Doylestown's campaign to raise $50,000 for a living war memorial in the form of an athletic field and stadium to be erected adjacent to the site where a new high school will be built, today reached the $36,000 mark. It was announced by Finance Committee Chairman John F. Mason.

The drive will close Monday, and with more than 800 contacts remaining to be heard from, it now looks as if the goal will be reached and that the total amount will put the campaign over the top. Over $6,000 was raised in the past two days. The largest individual gift to the campaign is a $3,000 pledge to furnish the electric lights to illuminate the stadium for night games—and this was made by the Doylestown Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Business Men Further Victory Parade Plans

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Oct. 11—Preparations for the Victory Parade which the Associated Business Men of South Langhorne will sponsor on Saturday, November 10th, occupied much of the dinner-meeting session of the group at Flannery's restaurant, last evening.

Charles O'Brien, the president, called upon Joseph Keating, one of the co-chairmen of the celebration committee, for a report. Mr. Keating reminded that the parade will form at two p. m. on the 10th of next month, the rain date being November 17th. There will be eight drum and bugle corps competing in the line of march throughout the borough, with prizes of $150, $100, $75, $60, $50 and three of $35 each offered. Following the parade the corps will have a color guard competition in front of the reviewing stand on Bellevue avenue near the Lincoln Highway. Prizes in this competition will be $20, $15, $10 and $5.

An invitation has been extended to riding clubs, lodges, business houses, fire companies and other groups in this area to participate in the parade. Business houses will enter floats, and a decorator has been engaged to decorate business places locally for the affair. It is expected that most stores will be closed for the afternoon and evening, giving full way to the events of the day.

The parade and program will not only be in observance of the recent victory over the Axis, but will also be a boost for the Victory Bond drive which the business men are backing.

Thomas Coe spoke in regard to the Victory Loan, urging full support of same.

A letter received from the Girl Scouts of South Langhorne, asking for aid in securing a meeting place, also financial aid, was tabled for the present.

RECEPTION TENDERED TO NEW TEACHERS

Dinner-Party Held; A. C. Moser and Thomas Campion Are Speakers

COVERS FOR EIGHTY

On the occasion of a reception tendered new members of the faculty of Bristol borough public schools last evening, the Bristol Teachers Association, a branch of the Penna. State Education Association, listed two speakers, presented a varied program of entertainment, and had a delicious dinner served.

The affair was held at Bowen's Restaurant, with covers placed for 80. The presiding officer was Miss Jane Rogers, president of the local organization, she introducing several guests.

The addresses of the evening were by A. C. Moser, research director of the Pa. State Education Ass'n; and Thomas Campion, a member of the faculty of Bristol high school, and who yesterday was granted an honorable discharge from the U. S. Navy, he having served in that branch since 1941.

Brief remarks were also made by James Steen, who representing the new teachers responded to the welcome expressed by Miss Rogers. Earl McKuen, president of Bristol school board, also spoke to the group briefly, informing the new faculty members as well as those who have been affiliated for some time, that "The school board and the entire faculty stand ready to help you become better acquainted with your work in Bristol."

James Wiberly, president of Bristol Fathers' Association, spoke of the two organizations for parents which function in Bristol school groups, the Mothers' and the Fathers' Associations. He invited the teachers to attend the meetings and affiliate, and advised "We want the Fathers' Association to be a general school organization, not one to benefit the high school alone. The Fathers are only too anxious to find good projects to support that will benefit pupils of all grades."

Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools, was also called upon. He mentioned to the members of the teacher profession the progress of the past few years in respect to salaries experienced a few years back. "Co-ordinated effort all over the state is bringing about better conditions for teachers," he said as he urged the teachers to co-operate with the state organization and also with the school board, "not from a selfish standpoint, but looking toward a good, sound school system."

In mentioning the fact that 1900 teaching positions in Penna. are yet to be filled, Superintendent Snyder said he was glad that Bristol

Lures Car Salesman To Country for A Hold-Up

QUAKERTOWN, Oct. 11—A Philadelphia used-car salesman was "taken for a ride" in more than one way Tuesday when he started out on what promised to be a "hot prospect" but ended in a hold-up in which he was robbed of $310 in cash.

The victim, according to Corporal Chester W. Reitz, commanding officer of the Quakertown sub-station of State Police, is Horace R. Chambers, 48, of 5255 Addis street, Philadelphia, a salesman employed by a Chestnut St., Phila., used-car dealer.

The missing stick-up bandit told Chambers that his name was Jimmy Williams. This is how it happened:

The Philadelphia concern Tuesday morning received a telephone call from a man who said his name was Jimmy Williams. Jimmy told the Sachs automobile agency that he knew a man "up in the country" who had a used Buick automobile for sale; that a salesman or buyer should meet him at Trainer's Restaurant, at Quakertown, bringing with him some cash, and that he would meet him at noon.

Chambers was assigned to the trip to buy the car. He met Jimmy Williams outside the Quakertown restaurant, and the two started off for the place where the car was supposed to be for sale. On a lonely road off Route 563 in a wooded section of Milford township, Jimmy pulled a gun on Chambers and stuck it in his ribs.

"Stick 'em up, brother. I want your money, you fell for this nice lie," said Jimmy.

Chambers was only too glad to unload when he felt the revolver in his ribs. The jackpot amounted to exactly $310 in cash.

"Now I want you to get out of the car; I'm going to drive back to Trainer's where you can get your car when you get there the best way you can," Williams said.

Chambers started hiking it as Williams drove away with his cash. A bus came by and Chambers rode it to Quakertown, located his car at the restaurant, and with his face red, drove to the State Police sub-station and told his story.

Corporal Reitz was at first somewhat dubious about the tale, but recorded the information on the docket. Chambers then departed for Philadelphia to tell his boss the sad story.

State Police checked up on the Sachs firm and found that the morning telephone call had been made by a man who said he was Jimmy Williams and that Chambers had been sent out to Bucks county.

All that the State Police or Chambers now have is a description of the missing Willie—5 feet, 8 inches tall, dark complexion, weight about 170 pounds. He wore a light felt hat, dirty white shirt, dark trousers and a light weight tan jacket.

SAVE THE GOOSE

Sobering though it is at this time when each day brings news of new strikes, the monthly letter issued by the National City Bank of New York offers a sage observation when it points out that reconversion is partly a psychological process. It must be agreed that if enough Americans refuse to reconvert their wartime thinking, the nation cannot hope to get quickly back to a sound peacetime economy.

The letter is optimistic about the physical side of reconversion. Industry has made progress exceeding all expectations, with the result that predictions of from 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 unemployed within six to eight weeks after V-J Day have not been borne out. The increase in the last six weeks is estimated at 900,000 and the total at 1,700,000.

But it is not encouraging, in the light of the obvious facts, when it insists that there must be new attitudes if the transition is to be smooth and swift. For there are few signs that labor is ready to accept the fact that "production, prices, and in the last analysis wages, must now conform to what a multitude of consumers want and can pay instead of the orders of one customer whose needs are insatiable and interest in price secondary."

Perhaps this reluctance to face reality is natural. It will be difficult to persuade some Americans that raising minimum wages means "condemning many people to unemployment" or to convince others that higher wage rates can force less efficient producers out of business and thus destroy jobs.

Nevertheless it is true that strikes do impede production, block reconversion, choke the output of needed goods and foster inflation. If union leaders will not see this, they still cannot be permitted to strangle the goose that lays the golden eggs.

TELL AND ASK

It is one of the peculiarities of the English language that often the most simple words convey significant meaning. A striking example is to be found in the directive issued by the Navy in taking over oil plants shut down by CIO strikes. Plant managers were "told" to go on with the normal conduct of the business. Heads of the striking unions were "asked" to co-operate in restoring production.

Here is a situation in which management, prices of its products frozen by the OPA, could not agree to extortionate demands of union leaders. Neither the War Labor Board nor Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach could talk the oil executives into giving in to the unions. The strike was dumped into the lap of President Truman, who issued the seizure order.

Unless the language of the official order was badly chosen, the power of the government is to be directed only at the oil companies. Co-operation of the unions is to be voluntary.

The Weather Man, at long last, is beginning to hint at changing the subject.

Inside Your Congress

On these points the Secretary acted as a responsible public official should—in short, for the supremacy of public law over private violence. Having taken this high ground, he completely abdicated his handling of a tense situation in a way that was gaining public confidence in his fairness by announcing that he would ask the President to take over and operate the struck refineries unless the companies agreed to put their 15 per cent offer in effect and accept an industry-wide compulsory arbitration of the remaining difference between 15 and 30 per cent.

When the companies protested he issued this classic of snide logic: "I've never understood that you arbitrate an agreement, but that you arbitrate the difference. The difference started at 15 per cent."

This was hitting below the belt and it puts the companies in the wrong before the public. There was no "agreement" on 15 per cent. The unions refused the 15 per cent offer. Some of the companies, in fact, had made no offer at all, and many unions whose men were still trying to get gasoline and fuel oil to the nation, pending negotiations, had not participated in any way with the Oil Workers Union, C. I. O., which was demanding 30 per cent, and in fact represents only a small minority of the workers in the industry.

Mr. Schwelienbach is a lawyer, and has been a federal judge. He knows better than most men that offers back and forth made to settle a case "out of court," but which are not accepted, are not admissible in evidence. No judge worth the name would permit the jury to know what either side had offered the other to settle a case.

As the New York Times says, Mr. Schwelienbach has "set a precedent which must tend to discourage a compromising spirit in voluntary wage negotiations. Both sides may feel that whatever concessions they made voluntarily will be used against them by the Government."

Mr. Schwelienbach has apparently done all that is humanly possible to make men inflexible and unyielding in the terribly important wage negotiations whose prompt and friendly settlement, if possible, are so vital to America.

President Truman repudiated W. H. Davis for his recent numbskull utterance. The sooner he repudiates Schwelienbach, the quicker we can hope to bring jobs and men together.

Japanese Silverware Is Shown to Members of Club

MYLESTOWN, Oct. 11—Members of Doylestown Nature Club shown a number of Japanese silverware and native Japanese cloth.

Mrs. Julius B. B. Stryker addressed them at her home here on Oct. 11. Mrs. Stryker spent six weeks in Japan.

There were many ancient silverware made to order. The purpose, as it is the custom, informs silverware what is wanted, and price range within which he or she wishes to keep. Then the silverware works accordingly. Mrs. Stryker informed that a small hut of the built near the buyer's home, and there the silverware of work. Slaves were employed to make the silverware, but the smith did not use any alloy.

Among the antique pieces in the display was a large silver bowl which had been used by the Sultan of Persia when he had a party. During the intervals between entertaining he kept his best in it.

There were also several beautiful silver bowls, which were as finger bowls. It was customary to pass these around after eating of rice, and all present washed their hands in the bowl.

One room were two brass basins, the bases of which had been used as containers. Among the silver articles were eight dishes called "sambles" that natives used for very hot food.

The Team in Scoring
This Season

The Langhorne Redskins will try for their third straight win tomorrow afternoon when they stack up against the Bordenstown Manual Training School on Playwick Field, Langhorne.

Coach Johnny Messic's lads have won both Southampton and George School although both of these schools managed to score on them. Southampton scored on an intercepted pass while George School counted on deceptive football.

Leading the Langhorne team in its scoring are "Doc" Righter and Wayne Schneider although as a whole the team has been co-operating in unison and playing wonderful ball.

The Bordenstown school beat St. Francis, 32-6, several weeks ago and have one of the strongest eleven for many seasons.

This afternoon the Falls Township team will play Southampton again on the Fallsington field. Fallsington beat the Southies, 16-2, last Friday.

WAKE UP YOUR DIGESTION BELOW THE BELT

Without Stomach Relievers

This Kind of Laxative Help Often Needed When Lower Sluggishness Causes Gassy, Bloating Misery

When most food leaves the stomach, it is by no means fully digested. It is in the 25 feet or more of intestine that the greater part of digestion is done. When we get congested these later stages of digestion often slow down. Then food is apt to ferment and decay exuberantly in the bowels. As a result we may feel full of gassy bloating and other indigestion ailments. That's when you need Beelam's Pills. They work to relieve this congestion of waste and encourage the welcome elimination which helps promote better digestion below the belt. Ask your druggist for gentle, all-vegetable Beelam's Pills today. Caution: Use only as directed. 2-c.
